FORD EDUCATIONAL WEEKLY 166 - One reel.

GOING SOUTH - A visit to New Orleans and St. Augustine.

Produced by Ford Motor Company.[✓]
Released thru GOLDWYN.

Writers speak of individuality, artists atmosphere and tourist's pamphlets of sunshine and balmy air. You will find that and more in New Orleans and St. Augustine.

So this is New Orleans! --

Canal Street, the one great thoroughfare.

Modern southern homes.

Iron railed block known as Jackson Square.

In memory of General "Stonewall" Jackson.

The Cabilda, where history was made and where the great Lafayette drank to the new republic.

Napoleon Bonaparte was to be rescued from St. Helena and brought to this house. But death came before the rescuers.

The French Opera House.

The house of "Madame John's Legacy".

Around the harbor.

Where Uncle Sam's sea dogs lie sunning themselves?

All that's left of the old Spanish fort.

The South always has and always will love horse racing.

Old French courts.

The old French market.

Also typical French homes in old French quarters.

Motive power, unique but reliable.

Down Commercial Alley.

The Duelling Oaks.

Singing Darkies shipping cotton.

Can you count them?

St. Augustine, city of legends, history and sunshine.

Beyond these gates lies St. Augustine.

Ponce De Leon landed here.

The Fountain of Youth he found.

The sword he buried.

First chapel in America.

The oldest hotel.

The yard of the oldest house.

Legend says a wish made over this well comes true.

Mammy is so old she's forgotten her age, which is typical of the old darkies.

Old fort and the ramp.

The main tower.

Some still bowl on the green.

St. George Street.

Ponce De Leon Hotel, built in 1885. Architecture, Spanish; cost $2,000,000.

Where moss grows on trees.

The narrowest street.

The lighthouse by the sea.

GOOD NIGHT.
